

GALICIA IS ONE LARGE GRAVEYARD

Rough Wooden Crosses Mark
Burial Places of Those Who Fell in Battles.

International News Service:

THE HAGUE, April 13.—Lemberg and Przemyel—how long it seems since our thoughts were concentrated on those two Galician towns! In reality, it is but a few short months. To ride from Lemberg to Przemyel today is to ride through one huge, vast churchyard. Wherever you look you see graves. There they are in long rows by the railway—saves of the men who defended the railway line. There they lie in groups in the wilderness!

On some are transfixed a small gray cap or German helmet, already rotting. On others the rough wooden crosses are sinking into the ground, as though they know the plough would soon be there. Sometimes you see huge graves from which many colored regimental flags wave vigorously above the pitiful landscape. It is almost as if some one were laughing in the grave below. The only break in this terrible churchyard is formed by some blackened, tumbled ground, once a village.

Such is the country over which the fury of war has raged three times. Only the cities have been spared, and have recuperated with a speed which would seem almost impossible. Lemberg is as gay and busy as ever. Przemyel is once more the peaceful provincial town of peace days. The streets are clean, the hotels are adequate and the shop windows are full.

I stood gazing into the well-filled windows of a confectioner. And the thought came to me, "What were these windows like a year ago?" A year ago horse-fillet was the best that riches could buy, and only very occasionally a countryman crept into the town to sell a chicken, for which $10 were gladly given. Winter clothes were not to be had then and rich men did not hesitate to walk the streets wrapped in some woman's cast-off mantle.

In this war forts have fallen like nine-pins. To Przemyel alone has fallen the honor of a long siege. To the garrison fell hardships which the siege of Paris did not know. In the

Don't Let Soap
Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulattified coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the hair family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Adv.

Gen. Carranza's New Agent

DR. ALFREDO CATIREGLI.

First Chief Carranza has appointed Dr. Alfredo Catiregli his special financial agent in the United States, particularly for the protection of American investors in Mexico. The recognition of Carranza by the United States was followed by the organization of many fraudulent concerns which pretended to have concessions in Mexico. So many inquiries reached Carranza, that an agent was appointed, and to him American investors may apply for information. He makes his office with the Mexican consul general in New York.

dead of winter there was not a window in the town and no glass could be had. The bombs of Russian aviators had broken them all. Horses were fed on wood pulp soaked in sweetened water. Some of the animals threw on it, other lay down to die.

In the Cafe Stieber you can listen for hours to such details as these. I do not think the house of Stieber is any ordinary cafe. Its history is the history of Przemyel. Long before Przemyel was first threatened, this cafe was the great proscenium of the war. The battle of Lemberg, the battle of Grodek, and a hundred other battles, fights and skirmishes took place within hearing. Almost the whole Austro-Hungarian army passed the windows of the cafe on their way east to fight the Russians. And later during the first and second sieges, Cafe Stieber was the center of this town. No one wanted to stay at home with his own dismal thoughts, guests could not be received, gas there was none and petroleum must be used sparingly.

The best thing to do, therefore, was to stick your two lumps of sugar in your pocket and grope through the streets to Cafe Stieber. And then there was always something to read there. In the beginning there was even from time to time a real newspaper brought by an aviator. Later there was only the war bulletin, which was slowly reduced from ordinary white paper to the backs of paper bags and finally to the backs of menu cards.

Last of all there was only one copy and that was on view in the Cafe Stieber. In the last weeks of the siege any bit of paper in the street was eagerly picked up and used as a cigarette paper.

Nor was tobacco any too plentiful. In February, 1915 $5 was offered for 10 cigarettes of poor quality. The offer was refused with contempt.

And if you had tobacco and cigarettes you could not smoke them where you would. For that you had to go to Cafe Stieber. There a huge fire burned night and day, for of wood there was plenty, but matches were precious indeed. The soldiers in the trenches got two matches a day for five men.
